New assistant principal named at Blue Valley Northwest

Teresa Potts has been named the new assistant principal at Blue Valley Northwest High School. Potts comes to Blue Valley with experience as a principal and assistant principal in the Maize School District near Wichita.

“As a long time Kansas educator I have had countless opportunities to note the exceptional academic, fine art and athletic experiences the Blue Valley School District provides for today's youth,” Potts said. “My focus has always been, and will continue to be what's best for kids. I am honored to have the opportunity to serve young people and their families at Blue Valley Northwest.”

Potts received her bachelor's and master's degrees from Wichita State University. She received her district level superintendent licensure from Ft. Hays State University.

“Teresa brings an extensive background in administrative leadership to Blue Valley Northwest High School,” said Al Hanna, deputy superintendent. “We look forward to the contributions she will bring to the BVNW community.”

Potts begins her duties on August 1.
